

Voiceral Communications Selects Dash911 Advanced E911 Service

Voiceral VoIP provider and Dash911, the premier provider of E911 for VoIP providers complete interoperability to offer advanced 911 services to Voiceral Digital Phone Service subscribers.

Denver, CO (PRWEB) September 8, 2006 -- Dash911, the premier provider of E911 for VoIP providers now providers advanced E911 services to all Voiceral digital telephone service subscribers.

Voiceral Communications, founded 12 years ago, was one of the nation's first ISP's (operating under the names Global One and Global2000). Voiceral, now a provider of digital telephone service, serves residential and commercial customers in the United States and Canada.

Voiceral's commercial telephone service, which features a proprietary PTX (Private Telephone Exchange) technology, offers a one-source solution for businesses and incorporates the phone system and call usage on one bill from one company. The PTX is more economical than a traditional PBX and offers flexibility and features not available with a standard phone system, allowing businesses to increase efficiency and productivity and better serve their customers.

David Conboy, CEO of Voiceral says, "E911 services are of critical importance to the safety of our customers and we knew we needed a company that offered the highest level of reliability and service. After examining a number of E911 providers, we chose Dash911 to implement all of our E911 services. Dash911 has all the necessary components to ensure that emergency calls are handled immediately and accurately."

Dash911 provides E911 services to more VoIP provider companies than any other E911 provider. Dash911 also provides DIDs, CNAM, termination and other carrier-type products and services to help VoIP providers assert an advantage and differentiate their offerings in the telco marketplace.
